RANDOM ACTOR VIOLENCE PREVENTION

PREVENTING CATASTROPHIC CAMPUS INCIDENTS

Every day in a statistically safe suburb or small town, students are found with guns, bombs, and plots to take out a school . . .

NOW THERE IS AN ANSWER . . .

Texas is one of the last major states that hasn't had a Columbine. Ever wonder why?

It's because of life-saving research developed by Dan Korem that hundreds of districts have applied since 1997. Now your school system can do the same with a simple three-step plan.

Step 1: Your intervention team will be trained for 2 days.

- 7 team members will be trained per 1000 students in your school system; each receives $100+ of materials
- What they will learn
 - How to identify a student or staff member with the Random Actor traits
 - How to apply a 3-point intervention that stops threats
 - How to present a 1-hour video to the rest of your staff (teachers are the most important person who must be able to identify the Random Actor traits)

Step 2: Your intervention team will present a 1-hour video to all your staff

- They will learn to do the presentation at the training
- Kits are provided for your campuses ($495.00 retail if purchased separately)

Step 3: Sustain Protection for 2 Years

- Korem & Associates will follow-up with your team for 2 years with the latest intervention techniques, threat assessments, and even timely reminders to show the overview video to all new staff.

Cost: $2 per student; $1 per student over 5,000. Contact us for details.

Many districts across Texas have seen their threats stop over the last 10 years. Dan Korem, author of Rage of the Random Actor, developed the research and training. He is recognized as the leading authority on this issue, and his research is regularly applied around the world."

After 9/11, only one region in the US didn't have mass attack threats in its schools.

It was the only region where over 2500 educators applied Random Actor Violence Prevention strategies.
